

DALE CARNEGIE COURSE FOR TEENS

ARE YOU READY TO DISCOVER SKILLS THAT LAST A LIFETIME?

The Dale Carnegie Course: Skills for Success for Young Adults is designed to prepare teens & young adults for the real world. It gives them the skills they need to reach their goals and live up to their full potential – at school, in their activities and social lives, and at work. The curriculum was developed with feedback from students. It consists of eight 3-hour, highly interactive sessions that keep the students engaged and help them achieve results.

Today, the world is more complex, competitive and demanding than ever before. Young people often need to balance school, activities, work and relationships while at the same time working and planning for their future. This course can help teens become more confident and better able to cope with the pressure and stress that they face – now, in and in their future.

We also help them develop confidence at face-to-face interactions, not behind a screen or device. They learn to present their ideas with poise and confidence and become active listeners as well. This course will help them take on leadership roles and handle criticism more effectively.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

High School students up to early college, looking to improve the skills they need to reach their goals and live up to their full potential in life.

2 college credits are available at the end of the program for a $50 transcript fee from our university partner, University of Central Missouri.
